

Alaska Intestate Succession

WITHOUT A WILL OR TESTAMENTARY DISPOSITION, shares will be willed in order of succession for ANCSA shares under the Alaska Intestate Succession.

1. If the shareholder had a surviving spouse, but no children, the spouse receives 100% of the shares.
2. If the shareholder had a surviving spouse and children, the shares are divided $\frac{1}{2}$ to the spouse and $\frac{1}{2}$ divided equally among the children.
3. If the shareholder was not married but had children, the shares are divided equally among the children.
4. If the shareholder did not have a spouse or children, the shareholder's parents inherit the stock.
5. If there are no spouse, children, grandchildren, or parents, the shareholder's siblings receive the stock.
6. If there are no spouse, children, grandchildren, parents or siblings, the nieces and nephews or their descendants receive the stock.
7. Adopted children: Under Alaska law, legally adopted children become, for all purposes, the children of the adopting parents. Similarly, legally adopted children are no longer the children of the natural parents.

NOTE: This is not a complete summary of Alaska's Intestate Succession Law and is not intended to be legal advice. If you have questions about your particular situation, you should consult an attorney.

RESIDENT OUTSIDE ALASKA: If the deceased shareholder resided outside of Alaska and did not properly execute a testamentary disposition and left no will, then the heirs will need to consult the laws of the state or country, or an attorney, to determine Intestate Succession Laws applicable to this situation.
